Planning for the Future by Structuring Attorney's Fees

As an attorney, you can enjoy some of the same benefits as your personal injury clients by structuring contingent fees for future payment.

This unique benefit can defer your income for future needs such as:

- Retirement
- Children's education
- Stabilizing income for your practice

Benefit Types

Pacific Life allows you to customize your payment streams specifically to help manage future needs.

Benefit types include:

- A lifetime of income that you cannot outlive.
 - Structuring fees also can protect both you and your spouse.
- Growth potential with the optional Index-Linked Annuity Payment Adjustment Rider.
- Payments for a specific period to help eliminate possible concerns such as paying your home mortgage or funding education costs for your children.
- Lump sums to help pay for a large purchase.

Payments to You or Your Firm

- By electing to have payments made to your firm, you can guarantee income to help meet payroll needs, or pay your business mortgage.

Design a Benefits Package to Fit Your Needs

- Start payments immediately or defer the payment start date up to 20 years.
- Add an additional feature to help offset inflation.

Managing Your Retirement

Whether you begin to take payments immediately or defer until sometime in the future, a structured settlement attorney's fees annuity can help maximize and protect income for the rest of your life. It's important to keep in mind that the average number of years spent in retirement is growing steadily. People are living longer as advancements in healthcare and science continue to improve. Understanding your life expectancy and how to manage the resources you'll need to be comfortable in retirement are the first steps of successful planning.

Life Expectancy for a 65-Year-Old in 2014

- About one in every four 65-year-olds today will live past age 90, and one in 10 will live past 95.
- The life expectancy for a couple, both age 65, is more than 89 years.

When Do You Plan to Retire?

Your timetable for retirement may not be what you planned.

- External factors may cause you to retire earlier than you thought.
- If you have investments in financial markets, the value may be higher or lower than you expected when you begin to take income.

Retiring Earlier, Living Longer

- With longer life spans and an earlier retirement, you may live in retirement for more years than you expected.

The Power of Tax Deferral

Defer Your Income

- By structuring your fees, you may reduce your current and overall income tax burden by postponing the income and spreading the taxable income over time. Instead of being taxed now on the entire amount, your income payments are reported to the IRS in the year you receive them.
- There may be no limits to how much you can defer by structuring your fees.

Deferring the taxation of income can result in a higher net amount to you. The following graph shows a hypothetical after-tax cash flow from structured attorney's fees in comparison to income from taxable investment accounts. Payments for all examples start in five years and are scheduled to last for 15 years.

Assumption: The attorney's fees are $300,000 with income beginning after five years for a 15-year period certain and a 4.50% internal annual rate of return with the payments taxed at 39.6%. The hypothetical taxable investments use a 6% and 4% annual rate of return, respectively, and all interest earned is taxed at the rate of 39.6%.

You Expect the Return Of and On Your Money

Some financial vehicles emphasize return based on the amount of risk. A structured settlement attorney's fees annuity can provide an income guaranteed for life, low investment risk, and a competitive rate of return.

A complete payment schedule, including how each alternative is taxed, is outlined on the following pages.

A Case Study Demonstrating Growth Potential

Pacific Life's Index-Linked Annuity Payment Adjustment (ILAPA) Rider

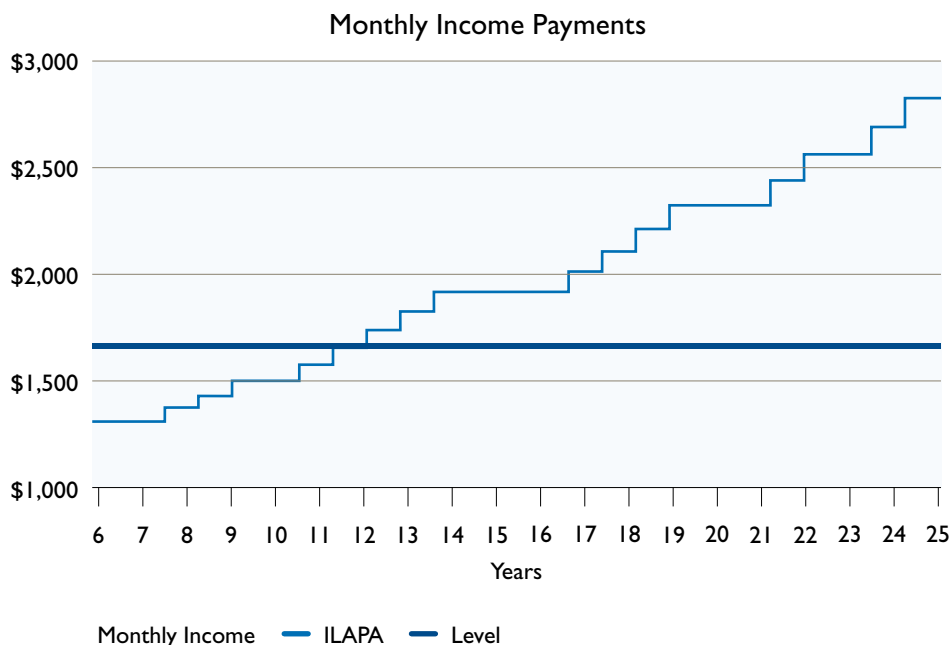

In addition to deferring taxes, the ILAPA rider may provide upside growth potential for your payments when structuring attorney's fees with Pacific Life.

Fast Facts

- The ILAPA rider payments are linked to the S&P 500® index.
- The rider may provide a long-term benefit with potential for growth.

Example

- Bob Barrister is 55 years old and has closed several cases this year.
- Another personal injury case he is handling will settle soon and his fee will be $300,000. Bob doesn't need the additional income this year. If he receives the fees in a lump sum now, he would be subject to paying income taxes on nearly 50% of that fee income.
- Bob plans to retire at age 60, so he wants to defer taking income for five years. He can do this by structuring his attorney's fees, which allows him to defer paying income tax until the year that income is received.
- The chart below represents the way Bob's monthly income may increase through the index-linked growth of the ILAPA rider. A level income payment would start higher, but with ILAPA his monthly income payments are structured for receipt over 25 years and could add up to a total of $592,082 before taxes.

Assumptions:

Income tax rate is 39.6%. Five-year deferral, 25-year certain for a purchase cost of $300,000. Based on S&P 500® index performance over the last 25 years.

This is one example of how structuring fees and using the ILAPA rider may help you plan for retirement.

Frequently Asked Questions

The following answers are for questions most often asked regarding structuring attorney's fees.

What documents are required by Pacific Life?

- The original Acknowledgement and Hold Harmless Agreement for Attorney's Fees form which confirms, among other things, that Pacific Life does not offer tax or legal advice, and the decision to structure is wholly the responsibility of the attorney.
- Acknowledgement language included in the Settlement Agreement and Qualified Assignment and Release documents.
- Request for Taxpayer Identification Number and Certification (W-9).
- Standard forms required include: application, proof of age (if applicable), Settlement Agreement, Qualified Assignment, and Release Agreement.

Who guarantees my payments?

- All obligations to make future periodic payments assigned to Pacific Life & Annuity Services, Inc. (PLASI) are guaranteed by Pacific LifeCorp. This is evidenced by a Statement of Irrevocable Guarantee, which is issued with each assigned case. PLASI purchases an annuity from Pacific Life (PL) and directs PL to make periodic payments to the payee according to the benefit schedule.

Must the claimant structure his/her own portion in order to structure attorney's fees?

- No. The claimant need not structure his/her own portion in order to structure the attorney's fees.

Can I structure fees already paid to me?

- No. The IRS does not allow structuring money after there has been actual or constructive receipt of the fees or an impermissible economic benefit from the fees.

Can I defer tax on fees paid on cases other than physical injury or workers' compensation cases?

- No. Tax may be deferred on attorney's fees only for amounts received as workers' compensation and/or damages on account of personal physical injury or physical sickness.

Can I name or change a beneficiary?

- The attorney can change the beneficiary as long as payments are being made to the attorney as an individual and not to a firm. Per stirpes beneficiary designations are not supported.

Can I structure cases after the judgment is final?

- No. The settlement agreement must be completed before the judgment is final. After the judgment is final, you are considered to be in constructive receipt of the fees.

Can a structured attorney's fees annuity with Pacific Life include payments to the individual attorney and separate streams to the firm?

- Yes. You can customize benefit streams and payees. Please have your broker contact Pacific Life for full guidelines.

Can I protect my income payments from the effects of inflation?

- The optional cost-of-living adjustment or ILAPA Rider can increase payments over time. Selecting the ILAPA Rider may result in a varying benefit amount based on the annuity type and period selected. For more information, ask your structured settlements consultant.

How Can Fees Be Structured?

Timing is Everything

Preventing Constructive Receipt: The settlement agreement must be completed before the judgment is final. After the judgment is final, you are considered to be in constructive receipt of the fees.

Establishing the Attorney's Fees Annuity

The funding for the structured settlement would be paid by the defendant, the defendant's insurer, or from a trust as described in Section 468B of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) and the underlying regulations pursuant to Revenue Procedure 93-34, 1993-2 C.B. 470, directly to Pacific Life & Annuity Services, Inc. (PLASI), in exchange for the assignment of the obligation.

- PLASI would then utilize the funding to purchase an annuity contract from Pacific Life to fund its obligations under the structured settlement.
- You would not actually receive the funding assets that are used to purchase the annuity contract, nor would you be the owner of the annuity.

The attorney can structure his/her fees even if the client does not structure his/her settlement.

Childs v. Commissioner, 103 T.C. 634 (1994)

In the case of Childs v. Commissioner, 103 T.C. 634 (1994), aff'd w/out publ. op., 89 F.3d 856 (11th Cir. 1996), both the U.S. Tax Court and the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals held that the attorney's fees to be paid in a future stream of payments were not currently taxable because no "property" had been transferred to the attorney within the meaning of IRC Section 83 and because the attorney did not have constructive receipt of the funds used to purchase the annuity. The courts rejected the IRS argument that the attorney was subject to immediate taxation under either IRC Section 83 or the doctrine of constructive receipt.

Legal Notes

Pacific Life obtained a legal memorandum from a nationally recognized law firm to support the attorney's fees structured program. The memorandum includes the following selected highlights.

Stipulations Prior to Establishing a Structured Settlement for Attorney's Fees

- The attorney's fees are due pursuant to a contingent fee arrangement between the claimant and the attorney in connection with a suit for damages by the claimant (where the claimant was a plaintiff in a tort action against the defendant and/or its insurer) and the attorney agreed to receive periodic payments of the fee prior to the time of the execution of any settlement agreement, structured or otherwise ("Settlement Agreement"), between the claimant and the defendant and/or its insurer in the suit.
- Alternatives for structuring the attorney's fees as fixed payments payable at regular intervals over a set period or for life (or some combination thereof) were offered to the attorney as part of the negotiations for the settlement agreement between the claimant and the defendant and/or its insurer.

Requirements When Establishing the Structured Settlement

- The attorney's fees are structured as part of a case in which the settled claim involves only amounts received as workers' compensation and/or damages on account of personal physical injury or physical sickness [excludable from gross income under IRC Section 104(a)(1) or (2), respectively].
- The assignment of the periodic payment obligation under the settlement agreement is made by the defendant and/or its insurer (with the consent of the plaintiff), and the plaintiff is designated as the "claimant" in all assignment documents.
- A Hold Harmless Agreement, signed by the attorney who is due fees, is required on all cases involving structured fees.

Notations

- The periodic payments made to the attorney for the attorney's fees are part of a structured settlement of the case (even if the claimant chooses not to have other structured payments made to himself or herself).
- The Commutation Rider is not available for structured fees.
